The funeral of Peggy Dixon and her son, Elijah B. Dixon, the latter killed on the battlefields of France in the late world war, will be preached on fifth Saturday and Sunday in July at the home of Uncle Bill Dixon below Blackey.

The Big Four Coal Co. lease at Caudill sold by Master Commissioner C. B. Powell at auction at the Courthouse door last Monday brought $21,000. Dr. Gid Ison, of Blackey, was the purchaser and it is understood he will continue operation. We learn that since the above sale Messrs. Crisillis and White, former owners, have re-purchased the property from Dr. Ison and are now in full control of the plant.

Various complaints of sneak thievery are heard in town the last few days. A number of residences have been entered and money, jewelry and other valuables taken. Just who is doing the low down stealing no one has presumed to surmise, but it is something that is foreign to our citizenship and has never been practiced here to much extent. Murder and crime will out and those guilty will be found out or it will get loose some way.

FOR SALE—Oakland touring car, 1920 model, good as new; price $750. Call on or address, W.S. Renaker, Seco, Ky.

A revival meeting began at the First Baptist Church here last Sunday and will continue for about two weeks. The services are conducted by the Pastor, Rev. Tate, assisted by Rev. Stickland, a well known minister from Texas. Considerable interest is being manifested and it is believed much good will result.

The wind and rain storm on Tuesday played havoc with a lot of farm and garden truck both in town and in the country. Many hillside cornfields were reported swept clean.

Dr. Gid Whitaker swapped his feed house and lot near the depot to the David Hays property just back of the First National Bank building. He will erect a good office building on the lot at once, the foundation of which is already laid.

A medical meeting will be held at the Daniel Boone Hotel Friday June 9 at 2 p. m. at which all the physicians of Letcher county are requested to be present, as well as an invitation is extended to ladies and others interested in health matters to attend. Some of the leading health authorities of America will be there and the conference no doubt will result in great good for our people. Among those from the outside to be here are Dr. A. T. McCormack, Dr. P. F. Blackerby, Dr. Anna K. Veach, Dr. Julian Estell and Col. Russell, the latter from Washington, D. C.

Dear Editor — Herewith find my check for $1.50 in payment of subscription to Jan. 1, 1923. This was really payable last January first and would have been paid then had you sent me a statement for I never know when my subscriptions expire. You will not offend folks by sending them bills these days and I think most of your subscribers would appreciate it, because no one remembers when their subscription runs out, unless they receive a notice or statement.

Some General News

Dad Crenshaw, one of the first conductors to bring a passenger train up the L. & E. into this section and well known to many of our people, died a few days ago at his home in Lexington.

It is now claimed that the soldier bonus bill to be passed by Congress soon will be signed, reluctantly, by President Harding. It seems that his only objection to the bill was as to how the government would get money to pay the bonus.

"The country as a whole is rapidly getting back to an employment basis with the exception of the coal and cotton textile industries," said Director General Francis I. Jones of the United States employment bureau in his report for May.

Civil war is raging between the British and Irish. Tanks, Howitzers and machine guns are again being used and in the last few days heavy losses have been sustained by the Irish. We have had no time to find out what it is all about except that the Irish Republicans are struggling to maintain their government, a veritable right which should not be denied them.

Wm. H. McGannon, former Chief Justice of the Municipal Court of the city of Cleveland, O. and for years one of the big bosses of the city was held on a charge of perjury and given from one to twenty years in the penitentiary. How the mighty fall!

In the National Congress the Republicans contend that the new proposed Tariff will, upon its passage, bring immediate prosperity to this country, while the Democrats, with equal ardor contend it will result in the very opposite.

Prospects for corn, grass, and potatoes in Kentucky were never better.

Speaking of getting back to normalcy, on May 1 average figures showed we were still 14 per cent above normal conditions as of May 1, 1916, or 22 per cent above that of 1912.

Traveling men tell us that times are slowly getting better. They are the first to feel the impulse of increase or decrease of business—good barometers.

Six Weeks Summer School

A summer term of school for the benefit of teachers and others who desire to attend, opened here last Monday. Prof. Beaman, a well known educator from Richmond, assisted by Prof. H. Gibson, of Mayking, is in charge. At present only about two dozen have enrolled but it is believed that this number will be greatly increased. The school so far as tuition is concerned, is free to all teachers and perhaps to all other students.

Noble Woman Called

Saturday night, in the death of Mrs. Mary Chambers Brown, Whitesburg lost one of its noblest and best women. For years Mrs. Brown had been in poor health, tho up until a few days before her death she had gone about her household duties and was as cheerful as usual. She was the faithful wife of our townsman, M. F. Brown, and had resided here a number of years. She was the mother of A. C. and Fred Brown, well known contractors and business men, and Miss Ruth Brown, an accomplished young lady just blooming into sweet womanhood. Before her marriage Mrs. Brown was a Chambers and belonged to one of Virginia's best known literary, intellectual and cultured families. She was a writer of distinction and author of a number of high class poems and literary productions many of which were published in the leading magazines of a few years ago. Mrs. Brown was fifty-nine years of age and had been a member of the Missionary Baptist Church for over forty years. Hers was a beautiful life and her example will live long in the hearts of her friends. Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church by Pastor Tate and interment followed in Sandlick graveyard. To the relatives and many friends the Eagle offers sympathy.

A Card

Our grief inexpressible and seemingly unbearable are lessened by the great show of friendship, love and tenderness of the dear good people of Whitesburg, exhibited toward us in the recent illness and death of our precious wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Chambers Brown. Oh, how we will always love each and every one for the kindness manifested on this occasion when we were so sorely in need of sympathy and help! May heaven bless you and lighten your burdens as you have helped lighten ours, is the prayer of a broken-hearted father and children.

M. F. Brown and Family

Letcher Leads

For the school year of 1921-22, Letcher county led all the other counties in the Tenth Congressional district in school attendance. Eighty per cent of the children enrolled in the census reports were in attendance at school. Jackson county with 75 per cent approached nearest to Letcher county.

Popular Couple Marry

Dan Morgan, leading business man of Dalna, and Miss Ethel Sizemore, daughter of Deputy Sheriff Geo. Sizemore, were married here by Rev. Tate of the Baptist church a few days ago. The groom is a member of the business firm of Morgan Bros. at Dalna. We offer congratulations and best wishes,

A CLASS PROPHECY OF 1922

Being the Graduation Address of
MISS ELIZABETH ESTEVA WEBB
Evening of May 19, 1922

Pinnacle Rock, so named for its sublimity, so admired for its beauty, where the beautiful and artistic touch of mother nature is so marvelously displayed—a scene so often visited by sight-seers. It was to this rock and amid this scene that the Pinnacle Literary Society went for a day's outing. After we had reached our destination and our crowd had drifted out amid the hills, I sat as one alone on a beautiful peak overlooking the ranges of gray mountains on either side. The Northfork of the little snake-like Kentucky river wound its gentle way down the valley to join its great mother, the Mississippi. Birds flitted from almost every twig and little flowers sleeping in their little beds whispered up to me. Then I found myself drifting into a reverie. The rock-ribbed mountains, ancient as the sun, hid from my mind many scenes, and thoughts like these flowed in upon me: Ah, how much like the future are these scenes? We are only looking out thro' a misty haze, most of it hid by the mountains of life! And while thus buried in meditation, a little nymph, a little goddess of the air, appeared to me and whispered in my ear. Whether it was the goddess of dreams, a fairy of ancient days, a nymph of the forest or a prophet, I know not. Whether I was asleep or reveling in day-dreams, I cannot say, but the thoughts were so sweet, so passing sweet, that I recall them with exultation.

The little fairy approached me and whispered: "my friend why are you so hurried in your future? Do you not know that what you here think are only your desires and your ambitions? Let me show you your future as it really is, and not as you dream it." My desire to read my future was great, but my reply was: Little nymph, little fairy, whatever you are, may I ask just one favor? Tell me not of my own future but that of my beloved class-mates, the seniors of 1922. And then came the nymph's reply: Ah, my friend great things do I see in store for your class-mates. And taking the glass extended to me I beheld the most entrancing scenes. The nymph sat near to explain. The first that met my gaze was that of a beautiful woman in on of the most magnificent costumes that ever met the human eye, standing behind the foot-lights of the grand opera, sweet flowers were falling at her feet; she was receiving the applause of thousands who had assembled to hear her sing. I looked and looked but little thought who this famous star might be until a heavenly voice keyed to the arch-angels rang out through the crisp air "Il-trovatore," and I readily recognized my old class-mate Ethel Burton. She had climbed to the top-most rung of the ladder of her ambition and I screamed for joy.

Now, friends, let me take you to a scene I have named "Happiness personified"; the land of perpetual sunshine and flowers—sunny California, and amid a row of California bungalows. One that stood out most was a stucco, surrounded by a beautiful lawn and rustic benches. Flowers grew around the little portico making the home more attractive, and, so I sat admiring this cozy corner in the golden west. Two beautiful little black-haired girls came running out hand-in-hand with their dolls and smiling faces. When their faces were turned to me I beheld the resemblance of someone I had known sometime in my life—and then she came to the door. She stood there calling to her children, her raven hair glistening in the sunshine. Joy indescribable and unspeakable almost overcame me and I realized why I had observed the resemblance. It was none other than my dear friend and old time pal, Dalna Hays.

Then came another change of scene; this time the hustle and bustle of the great city of Chicago. Hundreds of sky scrapers appeared and then another gigantic building flashing a huge electric sign "The Lewis Wholesale Company." What? Lewis Wholesale in Chicago? Are my eyes deceiving me? "No, no," came the whisper of my nymph, "for several years this firm has been established here." Then I was directed into the neat office of the president and general manager of the firm where I saw one of the handsomest men I had ever seen busily engaged at his desk reading the morning paper. Why; there sat my staunch and true friend, Oscar Lewis, the firm and faithful Senior of 1922. And let me take you to the paper he was reading. Inscribed across the front page the head lines read, "Greatest Discovery of Modern Times," and, reading, "Bruno Comadori, world's greatest mechanic, has at last succeeded in the accumulation of electricity to all machinery, taking the place of dry cell batteries, at which he has worked for years. It will mean more to the world than any discovery or invention of modern times."

But, friends, do not think that some of our class did not remain at home and having seen the success of so many of my class-mates in far-away lands I asked that I might be taken back to the hills of old Kentucky. Almost suddenly hundreds of acres of land met my eye, sheep grazed on the hillside, bluegrass was growing everywhere, a beautifully inviting grape arbor stood close by, perfect fruit trees laden with modern fruit, a beautiful residence with every modern convenience. I gazed entrancingly at the scene, thinking how things had changed since my earlier days in the hills. A big Dodge car came up the highway and parked in front of the home, a neatly dressed gentleman stepped out and walked along the flower-bordered path. Then I recognized my old class-mate, John Raleigh. His knowledge of agriculture and his desire to follow its pursuits had brought him the highest pleasures of life.

Again my mentor carried me away from my happy hills, and now the walls of Vassar College loom in my imagination. I invade a classroom where an intelligent student body is delving into the science of mathematics. The topic was trigonometry. I turned to get a glance at the teacher, stately standing, her eyes beaming with intelligence, and in a moment I recognized another 1922 Senior, Miss Gertrude Lewis. She was holding the chair of mathematics in that great school and was attracting the admiration of the mathematical world.

After a moment of silence the little nymph still close by my side spoke up again saying: "Now let me show you a true heroine." And my mind was again carried away to the beautiful land of the sunset, California—to Los Angeles and to the Great Santa Fe Hospital, where hundreds of nurses in pure white linen were busily engaged in their daily routine. I was led to a ward in the hospital where lay a man with a deathly pallor on his face. By his side sat a nurse reading to him from the book of books, the Bible. His eyes were sparkling with happiness, his face beamed with a noble light as she read, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life." This little nurse was uplifting a soul; if not raising him physically, she was raising him spiritually, striving to do both. Who is more of a heroine than she? I looked on with joy as the gentle face of the nurse was lifted to mine. My heart gave a great throb, for there was the dark, winsome face of my little school-day friend, Miss Reba Fisher. Her fondest anticipations had been realized.

For many scenes, dear friends, we have wandered over lands, but now we take a sail upon the high seas. How great to go to sea, to float upon its rolling waves! A great ship, one of the Eld. Tom Hopkins of Pikeville, one of the best known Baptist ministers in the mountains and one time member of Congress from the Tenth district (when we belonged to the old Eleventh district) spent some days in town this week. Since Col. Tom failed to call at the Eagle office and perhaps does not recognize the necessity of newspaper advertising, we will not mention the fact that he is a prospective candidate for Congress—wants to beat Mr. Langley in the August Primary.

Today a large number of well known attorneys and big business men from various places are in town attending Quarterly Court. Among those we noticed are W. O. Davis, of Lexington; Pete Wheeler and Byrd Holliday, of Hazard; E. W. Pendleton, of Prestonsburg; Judge Kirk and Madison Dunlap, of Jenkins, and Col. C. H. Bradfield, of New York City. Most of these are interested in appeals from the action of the County Board of Tax Supervisors and which cases are to be heard in Quarterly Court.

On going to press we notice quite a bunch of country citizens in town, including S. E. Adams, John Davis, Mayking; Jasper Bowens, Elihu Adams, Colson.

We will publish the graduation speech of any graduate who files with us copy of same. Type-written copy would insure correct text of the speech.

Just twenty-six persons have been hurled into eternity in Jefferson county by the automobile route since Jan. 1. In a majority of cases the killings were due to alleged reckless and drunken drivers. We believe that so far only one or two persons have been convicted to servitude in the State for these crimes. It is high time for the people to get their eyes open.

It is no wonder Methuselah lived to be over 900 years old. He didn't have to spend half his time dodging automobiles and the other part trying to edit a country newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Sargent returned today from Covington where they have been for some weeks.

Hon. Tom Moore, of Hazard, is here today.

The hearings held in the tax assessment appeal cases today resulted in some reductions from the figures placed by the county board of equalizers. There was a plausible reason for every reduction and the Judge ordered the court records to show just why each reduction was made.

We have observed for years that when work is plentiful and everybody who care to be employed are at work. Revenues in the postoffice invariably decrease. The month of May here was decidedly small and June so far indicates the same. Have your thoughts why this is?

Grandpa Starnes, while standing near the railroad track at the depot a few days ago was struck by a passenger train and badly tho' not seriously bruised.

Irvine Creech, traveling salesman formerly of Linefork was over from Poorfork this week.

Local news is scarce—everybody at work.

DAUGHTREY IS NOW ABLE TO STAY ON JOB

Declares He Is In Finest Health Since Tanlac Completely Relieved Him Of Distressing Stomach Trouble—Gives Public Facts In Case

"I feel like a different person since taking Tanlac and now able to stay on the job all day long," said J. H. Daughtrey, 420 W. 19th St., Norfolk, Va.; fourteen years with the Hampton Roads Paper Co. "I suffered a long time with indigestion and got worse until I was badly run down. Everything I ate disagreed with me and I would bloat up with gas which pressed against my heart and lungs so it was all I could do to get my breath. I was so nervous it was impossible for me to get a good night's sleep and I always got up with a bad taste in my mouth and all worn out. "A Tanlac statement impressed me so I decided to try it, and I began to improve almost at the start. I now have a splendid appetite, that sluggish tired feeling has left me and my sleep is good and sound. I get up every morning feeling fine and ready for a big day's work. Tanlac sure is a wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

New Local Paper

Toward the last of the month Letcher county is to have a new weekly local newspaper to be known as the Letcher County Leader. It is to be issued at Blair's Quality Shop on Main St. Harry Knipp, a young man of experience in the printing business, has arrived and will be associated with Mr. Blair in the business. We extend the usual newspaper courtesies to the new enterprise and wish it success.

Boy Wanted

Somewhere in this town is one boy who is a "go getter" spirit, full of grit and ambition, and absolutely honest. We want that boy. He will be the only boy agent in this town for the famous Movie Weekly Magazine. He will work after school and other spare time. His pay will be what he makes it; besides fine prizes and free Movie Tickets. When he makes good, he will be promoted. If you are between 14 and 19 years old, determined to "make good" and truly think you are the boy for this job, then apply by letter to Mr. E. L. Gilbert, "Personal," 3rd floor 119 West 40th Street, New York City. Give full details of any past selling experience; your age; parent's full name and business; your school grade and at least two references.

massive "White Liners." On the deck of the ship stood a very appropriately dressed little woman conversing with a gentleman to whom she had just handed her card. A dash of the wind blew it from his hand and it floated upon the waves. I caught the name on the card, Miss Edna Fugate, Sales Representative of Franklin, Simons & Company, New York. We clasped glad hands and embraced. She was now on her way to Paris to get the fashions of that greatest of the world's marts. As the ship sped its way over the rolling mountain ways and sank below a dazzled horizon my little nymph folded his hands, closed his eyes and melted into air. I regretted to see him go, but my reverie was at its close. But I had seen the future of those I loved, and should I not rejoice?

And now, my friends, you no doubt wonder why my little fairy told me nothing concerning my future. He spoke not a word, but told me only of my dear classmates, the Seniors of 1922. Good-bye!

Boosted Letcher

Emory Frazier visited Hazard and while there attended a meeting of the Lions' Club where he delivered an address boosting the greatness of the mountains and stressing the importance of getting together along business lines. Whitesburg needs such a club very much to help along the town and county.

Persons who fail to respond in a reasonable time to statements as to subscriptions will be stricken from the list. So, let us hear from you at once.

Deviled Spanish Green Olives

Here's a little hors d'oeuvre that may be prepared in a few minutes. It's novel and tasty. The family will enjoy it, and so will the guests. It's one of those "surprise" appetizers that labels your dinner charming. Pit large green olives and fill with the yolk of hard-boiled eggs mixed to a paste with a little butter. Lay an olive on a strip of bacon, sprinkle with paprika and a tiny pinch of mustard, roll up, fasten with toothpick and broil just long enough to crisp the bacon. Serve on toast fingers.

MILEAGE

Mileage is the "commodity" one purchases when buying a tire; not mere materials, but the service that certain materials will perform when combined.

Greater mileage is assured in Hydro-Toron tires because processes and principles employed represent the industry's greatest forward steps. The Internal Hydraulic Expansion Process prevents defects from being built into the tire—concealed from sight.

The Toron (no-rot) chemical treatment of fabric gives greater tensile strength, greater holding power between layers, increased affinity for rubber and complete protection against the damaging effects of moisture.

Hydro-Toron tires are oversize—as big as cords, better than cords. Next time you are ready to buy tires, come in and let us show you the tire you have heard so much about.

Hon. J. M. Bolling of Pikeville Colonel on Gov., Morrow Staff

Recently members of the Pike County Bar, commended and indorsed the efficient, kind and courteous manner in which Mr. Bolling filled the office of Commonwealth's Attorney of the 35th Judicial District of Kentucky. During his incumbency as Commonwealth's Attorney, Mr. Bolling was kind to all people having business in court. He was firm in prosecuting those who openly violated the law, and yet, he made the accused like him. He holds the record of having convicted more persons during the last September term of the Pike circuit court, than any other Commonwealth's Attorney at a single term of the court. Mr. Bolling's policy was not to abuse any one, neither did he accuse any one of swearing falsely.

At the request of the members of the Pike County Bar recently, Governor Morrow appointed Judge Bolling to be a Colonel on his Staff. This is only one of a number of honorable positions Mr. Bolling has filled during his eventful life. He was elected a member of the Kentucky Legislature in 1914, when Pike county was a democratic county. He was appointed United States Commissioner by Judge A. M. J. Cochran and holds the distinction of never having bound over a man who was not convicted, if he stood his trial. This is a record without a parallel elsewhere in the history of the State. He was appointed postmaster at Pikeville by President Roosevelt, being the first Presidential postmaster Pikeville ever had. During his term as postmaster he made a great sacrifice to have built and equipped a post office at Pikeville. He was elected a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago in 1904, and was honored on being elected to the committee on Rules and Organization in that Convention, which nominated Col. Roosevelt for President. He refused the nomination for Congress in the 10th Congressional District of Kentucky, in 1904 at Winchester, Ky.

Mr. Bolling was appointed by Governor Morrow to the position of Commonwealth's Attorney in July, 1921, and his records show that he made one of the best and most courteous officials Pike county ever had. Mr. Bolling was reared on a farm near the brow of the Cumberland, three miles from the closest schoolhouse. He studied by a pine torch, wore home-made clothes until he was 17 years old. He cleared ground, split rails, sawed lumber with a whip saw and was in the third reader when he was 17 years of age. He later worked his way through a ten month school at Glasgow, Va., under Prof. Vacker, after this he worked his way through school at the National Normal University, Lebanon, Ohio. Mr. Bolling taught school several years in Pike County.

Governor Edwin P. Morrow,
Frankfort, Ky.,

Dear Sir:—
The undersigned members of the Pike County Bar desire to express our commendations of the kind, courteous and efficient manner in which J. M. Bolling, of Pikeville, filled the office of Commonwealth's Attorney of the 35th Judicial District of Ky. He was fair and impartial to all persons having business in the court, and kind to the accused and courteous to all members of the Bar. We commend your action in appointing him to this office and we hope it will not be asking too much of you to ask you to make him a Colonel of your staff.

Signed: Alex L. Ratliff, P. W. Day, A. S. Ratliff, J. L. May, Frank Dameron, J. R. Johnson, F. T. Hatcher, E. D. Stephenson, F. W. Stowers, Roscoe Vanover, Fonso Wright, H. Paulley, J. J. Moore, Sidney Trivette, R. H. Cooper, W. W. Barrett, W. A. Daugherty.

Whitesburg, Ky., June 1st, 1922.
The members of the Letcher County Bar Association desire in this way to express their very high appreciation of the efficient, faithful and impartial services rendered by Hon. J. M. Bolling, Commonwealth's Attorney of the 35th Judicial District of Kentucky, whose term of office recently expired. By his faithful and efficient services Mr. Bolling won the respect and esteem of the members of this bar and it is the opinion of the members of this bar that the administration of the duties of the high office of Commonwealth's Attorney were administered by Mr. Bolling in a manner above reproach. The members of this bar wish him every success in life and are glad that this judicial district has been served by such an able and efficient officer.

Signed: David Hays, of Whitesburg, Ky.; B. Monroe Field, Emory L. Frazier, D. L. Day, D. D. Field, Stephen Combs, Jr., French Hawk.

Was Very Weak

"After the birth of my baby I had a back-set," writes Mrs. Mattie Crosswhite, of Glade Spring, Va. "I was very ill; thought I was going to die. I was so weak I couldn't raise my head to get a drink of water. I took . . . medicine, yet I didn't get any better. I was constipated and very weak, getting worse and worse. I sent for Cardui."

TAKE

The Woman's Tonic

"I found after one bottle of Cardui I was improving," adds Mrs. Crosswhite. "Six bottles of Cardui and . . . I was cured, yes, I can say they were a God-send to me. I believe I would have died, had it not been for Cardui." Cardui has been found beneficial in many thousands of other cases of womanly troubles. If you feel the need of a good, strengthening tonic, why not try Cardui? It may be just what you need.

Down in Eatonton, Georgia, you'll find real proof of the splendid wearing qualities of Pee Gee Mastic Paint. It was used there some nineteen years ago on the home of Mrs. T. G. Green, who writes the following letter:

"My house was painted with Pee Gee Mastic Paint nineteen years ago, and I want you to estimate what will be needed to go over it again. The house is in splendid condition although such a long time has elapsed since it was last painted. One room in which Pee Gee Flatcoat was used nearly twelve years ago is in good condition still, but I want it freshened up."

The great durability of Pee Gee Mastic Paint is due to its 50% of Zinc content ground in pure Linseed Oil and White Lead, making it a Double Pigment Paint.

Pee Gee Mastic Paint produces a tile-like film which successfully resists the elements, does not crack, peel or chalk off.

The high zinc content gives Pee Gee Mastic Paint its unusual covering and wearing capacity. It is by far the most economical paint you can use.

For interior walls and ceiling, use Pee Gee Flatcoat, the modern, sanitary, durable, flat oil finish. Comes in 24 deep, rich velvety colors.
